U. S. Nears 1955 Oil Shipping Mark

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—More than 14 million barrels of U. S. oil already have been shipped to Western Europe to relieve the shortage caused by the Suez dispute, the government reported today.

Secretary of the Interior Sean said the shipments were handled by individual American and foreign petroleum firms before the government gave its go-ahead to 18 U. S. oil companies Wednesday to pool their resources and meet the emergency.

These shipments started on Nov. 8, shortly after the blocking of the Suez Canal and the damaging of Middle Eastern pipelines, and the computation goes through Dec. 5, Sean said. All the oil came from the Gulf Coast area.

During all of 1955, the Interior Department said, U. S. Exports of crude oil and oil products to Europe totaled only 17,538,000 barrels.

Developments

Other developments in the oil picture today:

1. A committee of the National Petroleum Council reported that ocean-going tankers now under construction, on order or definitely planned will keep the free world's shipyards operating at capacity through 1961 or '62.

2. Director Arthur S. Flemming of the Office of Defense Mobilization said the question of giving a steel priority to build tankers is under active consideration.

3. Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) wanted that the United States cannot pour oil into the tanks of the free world without "upsetting" its own economy. "The United States is picking up the tabs for this economic war," he told a news conference.

The 15 major U. S. oil firms authorized to pool their resources for the benefit of Western Europe are operating under a government-approved organization called the Middle East Emergency Committee.

Refugees Cause Problem

VIENNA, Austria, Dec. 14 (AP)—The rising numbers of harried refugees slipping across from Hungary today baffled Western experts.

"Why don't the Russians stop them?" they asked.

The flow dropped to a low of 950 on Wednesday, apparently because Hungary's two-day general strike halted most trains and buses.

Rise

Yesterday the refugee tide began to rise again along the 150 miles of bare and wooded hills that make the Iron Curtain between Austria and Hungary. In a period of 24 hours, the frontier was crossed by 1,400 Hungarians.

In daylight hours today, the Austrian police counted 401. Many more are expected to cross during the night.

New Strikes Foul Budapest

BUDAPEST, Dec. 14 (AP)—Thousands of Budapest factory workers staged new sit-down strikes today and refused to produce even though the plants were occupied by Soviet and Hungarian troops.

The workers declared defiantly they would remain idle until Premier Janos Kadar's government releases two imprisoned labor leaders.

The Kadar regime hit back with new restrictions on the Hungarian people and threatened to cut off workers' salaries.

With the aid of Soviet tanks, the government apparently has crushed the last elements of revolution in the Hungarian countryside except for occasional bloody demonstrations.

Today's sit-down in Budapest seemed not to have spread to the provinces.

Rumors

There were rumors, however, that Kadar's government soon would be reformed to include non-Communists.

These reports said the Soviets eventually must drop Kadar and replace him with someone who can command at least a semblance of support from industrial workers and farmers.

One report said Szolnait Tildy, a former Calvinist pastor and chairman of the Hungarian Smallholders party, might succeed Kadar when order has been restored.

Tildy is not nearly as popular as Soviet-exiled Imre Nagy, but many Hungarians seem to feel he would be better than Kadar.

He was first president of the Hungarian Republic after World War II and for many years was held in house arrest by the Communist regime of Matyas Rakosi.

The strikes this week have further lowered production already curtailed by Hungary's severe coal shortage. Acute even before the beginning of the Revolt Oct. 23, the shortage has become graver since the number of miners has dropped from 100,000 to an estimated 45,000.

One informed Hungarian source said as many as 15,000 miners had fled from Hungary to the West and another 30,000 soldiers and prisoners employed in the mines have vanished.

Sparks May Fly When Nixon Meets Nehru In Washington

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Sparks could fly when Vice President Nixon receives India's Prime Minister Nehru at the National Airport Sunday.

The last time the two men exchanged words — they were thousands of miles apart then — the words were actually verbal blows over the issue of neutralism, and they resounded throughout the world.

But diplomacy and politics being what they are, Nixon and Nehru are fully expected to shake hands and smile in a well-mannered way. Should any sparks crackle they would be felt rather than seen, or perhaps sensed rather than heard.

India's Prime Minister is due here Sunday noon for four days of conversation with President Eisenhower and other top officials including Nixon and Secretary of State Dulles. In the height of last summer's controversy Nehru accused both Nixon and Dulles of saying things "opposed to the democratic way of life."

Relations between the United States and India have always involved a lot of controversy as well as a considerable degree of friendship.

One of the most intense periods of quarreling broke out last summer as a direct result of President Eisenhower's efforts at a news conference on June 6 to say something that would please and reassure the Indians.

The core of Eisenhower's comment was that the United States respects the rights of nations to be neutral although that didn't mean "neutral as between right and wrong." What it obviously did mean was neutrality between the Soviet bloc and the Western bloc. Countries like the Philippines, Pakistan and Turkey which have lined up with the West, in preference to neutralism, were deeply concerned by Eisenhower's remark.

Dulles undertook to set the record straight on U. S. policy on June 9 but merely succeeded in tipping it over in the opposite direction. He called neutralism an "obsolete . . . immoral and shortsighted conception." He succeeded in annoying the neutrals as much as Eisenhower had irritated the allies.

A few weeks later Nixon set out on a job of repairing U. S. relations in the Asian area, visiting only allied capitals. He said July 4 at Manila that the United States "cherishes" the friendship of all free nations, including the non-aligned, but that "we have no sympathy" toward neutralism that makes no moral distinction between communism and freedom.

Walter Reuther said today the nation's 18 million white collar workers can be unionized if established unions of production workers throw their full resources into the drive.

The former CIO president, now an AFL-CIO vice president and head of the United Auto Workers, said continued "pecking away" by organized labor at trying to get white collar workers to join unions won't do the trick.

Eden Returns To London After Rest

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Prime Minister Eden declared tonight "there is growing understanding" in the United States that British armed intervention in Egypt was right.

Eden returned tanned and rested from three weeks under the Caribbean sun in Jamaica and said firmly, "I am absolutely fit to resume my duties."

The 59-year-old Prime Minister fidgeted with the buttons of his double-breasted blue serge suit as he spoke to reporters.

Eden referred to the Middle East crisis and by indirection to U. S. opposition to British-French intervention almost at the outset of his prepared statement.

Certain

"Now I am sure from my post-bag and otherwise that what we have done has been right," he said.

"There is growing understanding in Canada and"—his voice rising—"also in the United States. I am sure this will go on increasing."

Eden said the formation of a U. N. police force for the Middle East "could be the turning point in the history of the United Nations."

"Does anyone suppose that there would have been a United Nations force but for British and French action?" he demanded.

"Of course not."

"Everyone knows now the extent to which the Soviets were preparing their drive in the Middle East. Russia supplied arms in such quantities, as has now been revealed, because she knew the Egyptian dictator's ambitions suited her own book."

"The aim was just this—more satellites, but this time in the Middle East."

"I am more convinced than I have been about anything in my political life that what we have done is right."

Rain, Snow Pelt Areas Of Nation

By The Associated Press

HEAVY clouds shed rain and snow over large areas of the nation Friday, sending some small streams over their banks in West Virginia, and threatening motorists with ice-slicked highways from Illinois to New England.

A snowstorm drove eastward from Nevada into Colorado and Wyoming. Rain and snow spread southward in the Mississippi Valley from the Dakotas and Minnesota into eastern Iowa, and a band of snow moved eastward across the upper Great Lakes region into New York State.

Showers and occasional thunderstorms were the fare for much of the Southeast, and there was extensive fog and drizzle from the Mississippi Valley to the Appalachians, with freezing expected during the night.

Gulf States

From 1 to 3 inches of rain fell during a 24-hour period from the Gulf states northeastward into Maryland. Local flooding covered some roads near the west fork tributaries in West Virginia. Front St. in Spencer, W. Va., was covered by 7 feet of water from Spring Creek.

The Weather Bureau said that heavy snow was expected in east-central and northern New York State, with accumulations of 8 to 12 inches likely.

Rain and snow showers extended over portions of the Northwest, and the northern Rockies.

In eastern New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle, gusty winds caused some dust blowing. Fog blanketed coastal California, closing the San Francisco and Oakland airports.

Temperatures were generally seasonal, with zero readings indicated only in northeastern Minnesota and northern Maine.

No Interference From Commission

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today announced it will not interfere with a 4 per cent rate increase which the Railway Express Agency proposes to apply to most of its less-than-carload business, effective next Monday, Dec. 17.

Exempted from the hike are milk, cream, newspapers and human remains.

Metropolitan Fires Sordello

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP)—Leading baritone Enzo Sordello was fired by the Metropolitan Opera today. There was discord as to the reason.

Cordello's version: prima donna Maria Meneghini Callas had him ousted because he held a high note longer than she did.

Satellites To Carry High Into Space

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Hitchhiking subsatellites will ride with some of the earth satellites to be rocketed hundreds of miles into the air during the 1957-58 International Geophysical Year.

The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics disclosed today the subsatellites would be ejected from the nose of the dying rockets right after the main satellites have been released to begin their orbits 200 or 300 miles up.

These subsatellites will be inflated like balloons at the moment of ejection, NACA said, assuming the size and shape of the heavier satellites, which are 20 inches in diameter. The two types of satellites will orbit separately around the earth.

Information

Information gained from tracking the subsatellites visually and by radar "will be of great interest because of its bearing on the design of future satellite vehicles, long range, rocket-boosted hypersonic gliders and intercontinental ballistic missiles," NACA said.

It added the scientific balloons would also be valuable in measuring drag and density of air in the extreme outer limits of the earth's atmosphere as they move around the earth.

The subsatellites are made of plastic and coated with aluminum to protect them from the action of ultra-violet rays and other radiation and to increase the reflection of light for the benefit of ground observers. All together, their skin is about as thick as candy foil.

NACA said larger subsatellites visible to the naked eye may be built for later experiments.

The main satellites will be packed with instruments for collecting scientific data and radiating it back to the earth. The subsatellites will be hollow.

Plans call for the launching of about 12 satellites by the United States during the geophysical "year," an 18-month worldwide scientific project aimed at finding out more about the earth and the atmosphere around it. The satellites will be carried aloft by powerful, three-stage rockets.

Fulbright Anxious For Investigation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) said today the Senate Foreign Relations Committee should investigate, without partisan motives, what he termed "maladroit Republican handling of foreign policy."

Fulbright will become the second ranking member of the committee's Democratic majority in the next Congress convening Jan. 3.

The Arkansas senator told a news conference the Eisenhower administration has fumbled often in the foreign relations field.

"I really feel the foreign relations committee bears some of the responsibility for not having been more active, more curious, more inquisitive," Fulbright continued.

He said he would urge far closer study in the future and expects there will be more investigation.

But he emphasized he was neither thinking nor speaking in terms of "public hearings or trying to make headlines" or political capital.

Fulbright said the committee, and Democrats as the opposition party, have a duty "to help the administration clarify its foreign policy" and perhaps develop better policy.

U. S. Agrees To Supply Weapons

PARIS, Dec. 14 (AP)—The foreign ministers of the 15 Atlantic Pact countries declared tonight Soviet penetration of the Middle East is a threat to the security of the NATO area. The NATO Ministerial Council then wound up a four-day session by approving a military directive placing primary emphasis on tactical atomic fire-power.

U. S. Defense Secretary Charles F. Wilson promised today the United States would supply its Atlantic Pact allies with modern weapons capable of firing atomic warheads, but not the warheads themselves. He urged European NATO members to develop and produce their own new super-armaments.

The NATO foreign ministers called in their final communique for a permanent peaceful settlement of all Middle East problems through the U. N. They stressed the need to get the Suez Canal operating again with the least possible delay, the urgency of a final settlement of the waterway's future, and called for an end to the explosive Arab-Israeli conflict.

Emphasizing the threat to world peace of Soviet penetration of the Middle East, the ministers pledged in a communique to keep close and constant watch on developments there.

Communique

The communique, marking the end of the council session of foreign, finance and defense ministers, also denounced Russia for "the brutal suppression of the heroic Hungarian people."

It urged the U. N. to keep up a steady pressure of world public opinion to induce the Soviets to withdraw.

"The ministers examined the implications for NATO of Soviet policy and actions in Europe and elsewhere," said the communique. "In the light of their assessment of Soviet policy they were in full agreement on the need to face up to any threat which would endanger the security and freedom of the Atlantic community. In this connection, the council approved a directive for future military plans, taking into account the continued rise in Soviet capabilities and the various types of new weapons available for NATO defense."

This directive was the first issued to NATO's military commanders since the Lisbon conference of March 1952.

The communique pledged NATO members to closer advance consultations on political problems than in the past.

U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles described the session as a turning point in the development of the alliance.

Ministers

The ministers met in the wake of a dispute between the United States on one hand and Britain and France on the other over military action against Egypt. Dulles said that in private talks with French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd much was done "to bury if not dissolve entirely the differences existing in our unity."

Lawyers Fined For Failure To Register As Lobbyists

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Two lawyers for an oil company were fined $2,500 each today for failing to register as lobbyists while working for congressional passage of last winter's natural gas bill. They pleaded guilty.

The lawyers, Elmer Patman of Austin, Tex., and John M. Neff of Lexington, Neb., were also given one-year prison sentences but these were suspended.

Their employer, the Superior Oil Co. of California, was fined $10,000 on charges of aiding and abetting the lawyers' failure to register.

The sentences were imposed by U. S. Dist. Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy after reading a number of letters offered in behalf of Patman and Neff.

Defense counsel asked that no prison sentence be imposed. Judge McGarraghy said he could not agree there should be no jail sentence, but did say no useful purposes could be achieved by actually sending the men to jail.

Misdemeanor

The charge to which they admitted guilt is a misdemeanor. The government dropped all other counts of the indictment, including a felony charge that Neff and Patman, with $2,500 of Superior Oil's money, unlawfully tried to influence the vote of Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) in favor of the gas bill.

This bill would have exempted natural gas producers from direct federal regulation. A grand jury investigation was ordered after Case told the Senate he had rejected a $2,500 campaign contribution offered him while the bill was before the Senate. Neff had left the money with a friend of Case's.

Two-Party System

SAIGON, Dec. 14 (AP)—South Viet Nam's Legislative Assembly is adopting rules to enforce a two-party system modeled on that of the United States. One rule bars Assembly members who belong to neither major party from the Steering Committee and special committees.

Hunters Killed By Accidental Gunfire This Year Exceed Total For Both 1954, 1955

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14 (AP)—The State Game Commission reported today that the number of hunters officially recorded as killed by accidental gunfire this year has exceeded the totals for both 1954 and 1955.

Current figures, which generally do not reflect the exact count because of the delay in reporting, show 22 gunfire fatalities for 1956. The total includes eight known killed during the two-week buck deer season which ends at 5 p. m. tomorrow.

Last year 19 persons were killed in hunting accidents while in 1954 the total was 21. For the five years before that the figure ranged from 16 to 34.

Young Woodsmen

A commission official said that this year "most of the deaths apparently were caused by teenagers or hunting companions who were careless in loading, unloading or carrying firearms."

The commission has not completed its age breakdown of the preliminary reports, but teenagers were involved "in a major number of the cases." Two of the four killed early this week were 14 and 17.

Eleven persons were fatally shot during the small game season, two hunting woodchuck and another in a miscellaneous hunting accident.

No up-to-date review of the buck season is available but preliminary estimates of the kill are expected in a week or two. Final figures will come later.

The commission is sticking to its pre-season prediction that since the supply of deer is plentiful the kill "will compare favorably" with last year's results. About 45,000 antlered deer were reported taken in 1955.

Congressman Named By Grand Jury

SCRANTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—A Democratic congressman, five contractors and a former U. S. representative named as a "go-between" who collected payoff money were indicted today on conspiracy charges by a federal grand jury.

The seven men were accused generally of practicing "frauds and deceptions" on the Army Department and the Corps of Engineers during the construction of the $33-million-dollar Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot.

Indicted in a presentment handed to U. S. Dist. Judge John W. Murphy were:

U. S. Rep. William J. Green Jr., who is also chairman of the Philadelphia Democratic Committee; Herbert J. McGlinchey, also a Philadelphia Democratic leader who served in Congress in 1944-46; John P. Gilboy Jr., of Scranton, Pa., head of an engineering firm; Joseph Rochez of Rochez Brothers, Inc., a Pittsburgh construction company; Frederick J. Baff, Hartford, Conn., plumbing and heating contractor; Robert W. Brown of Consolidated Construction Co., Merchantville, N.J., and John B. Kennel, Philadelphia painting contractor.

The grand jury charged that the seven men conspired to circumvent the standards and specifications in the contracts for the building of the big Army installation.

Concerning Green the indictment said:

"It was part of said conspiracy that the defendants and co-conspirators would from time to time corruptly give money and other things of value to the defendant, Congressman Green, while he was a congressman, with intent to influence his action on any question, matter, cause and proceeding which may at any time be pending before the Armed Services Committee of which Congressman Green was a member."

The payment of money and other considerations, the indictment charged, "would then be disguised and concealed in the donor's and payor's books and records, so as to not truly reflect the donor and payee to be Congressman Green."

The grand jury sought unsuccessfully last November to win the House seat of Rep. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.), of being the "emissary and go-between for the collection and delivery of money and other considerations passed among the defendants."

The indictment charges that Green received $10,000 paid by Raff to Gilboy and that it reached the congressman's hands through McGlinchey.

Bonds

The grand jury said that Green received performance bonds — he operates a Philadelphia insurance business — from five contractors and the premiums totaled $20,000.

It was the third batch of indictments returned by the grand jury which began hearing testimony on the Tobyhanna case April 4. It brought to 12 the number of individuals cited. None of those have been arraigned yet although the first indictments were returned May 29.

The grand jury gave no indication of the total amount involved in the alleged frauds. The group is still investigating other phases of contracts for the depot.

Gilboy and Raff were indicted Dec. 6 on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government. Gilboy was also named in another indictment which charged him with accepting a $10,000 bribe from Raff in reward for a contract worth $2,660,000.

Others previously indicted were Joseph J. McHugh, Robert E. Malloy and John Durkin, business agents for a General Drivers Union local, all charged with extortion, and Frank P. Laurelli, superintendent of the John B. Kennel, Inc., painting contractor, charged with intent to influence commission of a fraud.

Conservatives Choose Leader

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 14 (AP)—John Diefenbaker was chosen today as national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, the main opposition to the ruling Liberal party.

Diefenbaker is 61 and is a member of Parliament from Saskatchewan. He succeeds George Drew, of Ontario, who retired because of ill health.

Rev. Bollier Announces Sermon Topic

IN KEEPING with the Advent Season Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Stroudsburg, Rev. John A. Bollier, will preach on "Behold, the Lamb of God" at the 11 a.m. worship service tomorrow.

Youth Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Earl Wilhoite, and the Senior Choir under the direction of Vernon C. Inuit, will sing special Christmas anthems.

During the church hour a nursery with a section for infants and one, two and three year olds and another section for children four years old and above will be provided. Mrs. Thomas MacIntyre and Mrs. Richard Turner are in charge of this project. Volunteers to help may contact either of these women.

At 9:45 a.m. Church School classes for everyone two years old and above.

Preparations

The Departments are making their final preparations for the special Christmas program for next Sunday night, December 23, at 5:30 p.m.

Tomorrow at 7 p.m. the Junior High Westminster Fellowship will meet in the Church to go Christmas caroling. The members will then return to the church for refreshments. Senior High Westminster Fellowship will meet at 7 p.m. for a special Christmas film strip and worship services conducted by Carol Wilhoite.

At its regular meeting last week the Board of Deacons decided to sponsor a used clothing drive for Hungarian Relief. Used clothes, or blankets which are clean and warm may be brought to the church beginning next Sunday. These articles will be distributed through the Church World Service, the inter-denominational Protestant Relief Agency. Money contributions for Hungarian Relief may be made through the church office. These funds will be sent to the Church World Service.

Two Programs On Agenda For Tomorrow

CELEBRATION of the Christmas season will begin in the Middle Smithfield Presbyterian Church tomorrow with two programs focusing on the birth of Christ. The Church School program under the direction of Mrs. Mahlon Hallett will begin at 10:50 a.m.

"The Christmas Story," will be presented by those in the beginner and primary departments, directed by Vivian Vaughn, Sue Wicks, Ruth Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Horton Place.

Leadership

Under the leadership of Jean Hallett and Josephine Fuhrer, the Junior Department will read narratives on the Nativity taken from the Bible. Mrs. Carl Sholt's Intermediate Department will sing the Christmas carol, "O Little Town of Bethlehem." The service will conclude with the showing of colored films, "O Holy Night," accompanied by musical recording. In the morning worship at 9:45 Rev. David Newquist will preach on the topic: God's Peace in an Age of Peril. He will be assisted in the service by Alvin DeWitt Jr. at the organ. Concluding the worship of the day at 7:45 p.m. will be the pageant "Why The Chimes Rang," which will be directed by Alice Wicks.

Grace Church Announces New Members

THIRD SUNDAY in Advent will be observed at the 11 a.m. service tomorrow morning in Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg. Pastor William Wunder's sermon theme will be, "What Christmas Means."

The chancel and altar area of the sanctuary have been elaborately decorated with two 20-foot Canadian spruce trees and will be brilliantly illuminated for all services of the season, beginning tomorrow. They were presented to Grace Church by Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Kishpaugh in honor of their 17th wedding anniversary. They were placed by Howard Smith, Charles Stutter, Paul Daily, Tom Wary, Clyde Heckman and assisted by members of the Lutheran Youth. The two huge trees weigh 500 pounds apiece.

A memorial pew will also be presented to the parish and will be dedicated during tomorrow morning's service. The inscription on the silver marker to be affixed to the pew bears these words: "In Loving Memory of Arthur Swink By His Wife Alma and Daughter, Eleanor."

Two outdoor sheared live Canadian spruce trees have been placed at either side of the main entrance to the sanctuary and electrified with 105 white lights. One was presented by George Litts in memory of his wife, Lida; the other by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bensley in honor of all children of the area.

Seventeen new members will be received into membership during Sunday's services. Mrs. Palmer Serfass, 300 Pine St., Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Louis O. Hummel, Chestnut and First Sts., East Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Heeter, Ananiam; Dr. and Mrs. James A. Reed, 237 E. Broad St., East Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Philip K. St. John's To Observe Advent FOUR SUNDAYS PRECEDING Christmas are regarded as Advent season. It is during this period that the historic Christian Church has always called upon its members to prepare themselves for a proper observance of the Lord's Nativity on Christmas Day.

Conforming with this ancient Christian custom, no services marking Christmas will be observed in St. John's Lutheran Church until Christmas Eve.

Tomorrow the congregation will observe the Third Sunday in Advent at which time the pastor, Rev. P. N. Wohlson D. D., will use the Gospel for the day as the basis for his sermon on the theme: "A Troubled Mind."

John Carson will serve as acolyte and C. S. Kitchen, A. W. Keiper, J. B. Dunkelberger and Vernon Eilenberger will serve as ushers.

Altar flowers will be placed by the primary department of the Church School in memory of departed teachers.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Kintz Jr., will have charge of the nursery for pre-school age children at 10:50 a.m.

Senior choir under the direction of Richard Lindroth, the choir-master, will sing two appropriate anthems for the Advent season. Mrs. Ralph Bender Jr., will furnish appropriate organ music.

Visitors engaged in the annual visitation of the congregation are all asked to make their final report to Alfred W. Munson, chairman, at 2:30 p. m., in the church school room.

At the Vespers, 7:30 p. m., Rev. Wohlson will present the seventh study in the series of studies of the Ten Commandments. His subject will be "Honesty."

Gary Haas will serve as acolyte and John Valler-champ, Edgar Serfass, Richard and Douglas Shook will serve as ushers. Music will be furnished by the chancel choir.

Church school will be held at 9:45 a. m., with Richard Fredenberg as superintendent.

ONE OF THE FAITHFUL ?

Joe and I were passing the record shop the Saturday before Christmas. An amplifier was blaring, "O Come, All Ye Faithful."

"That leaves me out," said Joe, cynically. "I'm not one of the faithful, so I'm not supposed to come."

Now, I'm a Christian; and I can't let a remark like that go unanswered.

"Ever stop to think, Joe, that the faithful are not only the folks who have been faithful, but also the folks who are going to become faithful . . . like you, Joe?"

To make a long story short, Joe went with me to Church the next day. And we both heard the Pastor say that the purpose of Christmas is to reveal God's love to a world that does not understand. . . .

Nowadays, when I see Joe singing in the choir, I remember the record shop and Adeste Fideles—God's call to worship for the faithful of yesterday, today and TOMORROW!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Direct Approach To Russia As Urged
By Menon Contains Considerable Merit

India's Krishna Menon is noted in diplomatic circles as a gentleman who is quite loathe to mouth any phrases that might be considered offensive to the Soviet Union.

Under the prodding of Indian Premier Nehru, who has been newly "enlightened" as result of recent Soviet activity in Hungary, Menon's tone has softened just a bit in the heated United Nations debate on Hungary.

The other day, he outlined India's position to the General Assembly in these words:

"We believe that the overwhelming majority of the Hungarian people desire the withdrawal of the Soviet Union forces from their intervention in Hungary.

"The amount of damage that has been done to Budapest, we are informed, is on a scale that would take place in wartime. Therefore, it is necessary for us to state here and now, as we stated before, that the responsibility rests on the Soviet Union."

While Mr. Menon abstained on the vote rather than support the 17-nation move to condemn Russia, a move spearheaded by the United States, he did set the keynote for a futile counter-move by the Afro-Asian Bloc of nations to send Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld to Moscow in an effort to deal with the Hungarian problem there.

The simplicity and directness of this plan is commendable. It recognizes the Communist scheme of working through political middlemen—as in Korea—while pulling the strings from behind the scenes.

The Free World has expended a great deal of time, military might, manpower and patience in fruitlessly trying to deal with these political "buffers."

It's about time that we side-stepped the puppets and went directly to Moscow to deal with the "brains" directing world-wide Communist activities. Not only in the Hungarian matter should we do this but whenever and wherever Soviet policy causes trouble in the world.

At the very least, it may give the Kremlin leaders who prefer to stay in the shadows some uncomfortable moments. And we will find out a lot sooner where Russia really stands on momentous problems.

U.S. Communists Trying New Move
To Cover Up Illegal Activities

American Communists, who regularly flop with the propaganda twists from Moscow, now are undertaking another renovation pose. They are rewriting their "constitution."

The rewrite, as one might expect, is another curious conflict of loose ideological generalities and sucker soft-talk.

The new "constitution" is against exploitation of man, imperialism, colonialism, monopoly, discrimination and chauvinism, all of which are the prime aims and, indeed, all too apparent achievements of world Communism.

While it claims devotion to the principles of Jefferson and Lincoln, in the same paragraph it repudiates its allegiance to Marxism and Leninism—which are the exact opposite.

It talks loftily of democratic methods, but concedes that its principles are to be applied "as interpreted by the party" — which means black can be interpreted as white when need be.

All of this, of course, merely is a devious effort to cover up the illegal activities of the Communist conspiracy. And to deceive Americans into believing that the local branches of the conspiracy are independent of the central dictatorship in the Kremlin.

The new "constitution," ostensibly the work of a convicted subverter, is a typical Commie fraud—both on its face and in its conception.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

U.S. Gives Disproportionate Share To Aid
Other Nations But Receives Little Credit

The American people have most generously contributed of their means to the rehabilitation of other nations, but it has not always been in their name. For instance, UNRRA was largely an American enterprise, but this country received very little credit for the millions that the American taxpayer poured into this work. In fact, a suspicion was current during UNRRA's period of greatest activity that all signs and marks indicating the American origin of the gift were removed, so that the people of an aided country would not know what the United States had done for them.

Point Four is an American enterprise initiated by President Harry Truman, which aids weak and backward countries to improve their economic conditions and the social conditions of the people. From a strictly American standpoint, Point Four is a charitable contribution that the American people make to the people of these various countries.

However, there are countries which would prefer to receive American aid without acknowledging that it is American. To achieve this purpose, they are pushing the SUNFED Project in the United Nations. There are 79 nations in the United Nations, but the United States pays not one-seventh-ninth of the U. N. budget but one-third.

Also, as the United States gives other forms of aid to many countries, such contributions offset U. N. contributions on their part. In a word, the likelihood is that the United States will pay most of the cost of SUNFED.

If we are to pay for it, we might as well get the credit for it. The objective of SUNFED appears in the following paragraph: "Despite the scientific and technical progress of the past decades, two-thirds of the world's people still live a marginal existence in a daily struggle against hunger, poverty and disease. Most of these millions are found in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Near and Middle East. Some improvement in living standards has occurred in certain areas during recent years, but stagnation or worse is the common lot of the vast majority—thus creating a constant danger to world peace."

The danger to world peace does not originate in the economic inequalities of man. In our times, the real danger arises from the existence of Soviet Russia which advocates permanent revolution and practices imperialism. Another real danger in our day is intensified nationalism which may one day produce World War III. There is no evidence that the low standard of living of any country is an impetus to war.

I am not arguing for a low standard of living. I am protesting against sociological frauds which have no basis in fact or in theory but which sound good as propaganda for the redistribution of the wealth of the United States over the deserts, the jungles, the marshes of the world.

If the American taxpayer is to spend his money telling people how to plant, it would be preferable to call it an American rather than a United Nations enterprise. The United Nations pamphlet on the subject says further:

"But poverty, hunger, disease and ignorance still thrive and the less developed countries cannot increase their savings sufficiently without reducing living standards still further. Therefore, they need help for a time from countries which have money to invest until they can raise their incomes sufficiently to continue progress under their own steam."

The usual way to invest such capital has been by private enterprise and private investment. Thus, for instance, British and French money went into the building of the Suez Canal, but when Nazier desired to, he seized the Suez Canal and took it away from private capital, just as Soviet Russia confiscated all privately-owned enterprises in Russia, just as at one time Mexico confiscated the property of American oil companies.

In a word, the question arises whether it is safe to invest capital in a country. If it is unsafe to invest private capital, is it preferable to invest public capital? But what is public capital? It is a part of private capital taken from the earnings of each person in the country for the common use of all. In the United States, it is a share of possessions of each earner in the country, involuntarily given to the government for its use. Is planting soy beans or sunflower seeds in the Sinai Desert a proper use?

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

This is the season of automobile shows, with the National in New York leading the way. No longer is it just an auto exposition. It is a thing of (broad)lights, music, sex appeal, glamour, style, art and Arabian Nights, with the folks choosing an auto as they choose a de luxe bathroom, a ball gown, or a hat.

The lush and plush mood prevails. And the top reason for it all is an American prosperity so fantastic that a man hates to be caught in this year's traffic jam in last year's car, and is humiliated if a cop, arresting him for speeding, finds he is in the same station wagon in which he was arrested last summer.

Things have reached a point where Americans turn in a car if the dust on the hood is not new. They are unhappy if the squeaks are a year old and hear a new model has them in a different key.

Mr. and Mrs. America buy cars for prestige. Even if without a spare pair of socks they believe they can reflect community influence by rolling around in a costly limousine on which there are only 15 more payments.

The common questions at an auto show used to be "Where are the petcocks?" and "Are the grease cups easy to reach?" They have been completely replaced by: "Is the upholstery of genuine Chinese silk?" "Shouldn't the headlights be in color?" and "How much prestige does this car give to the gallon?"

A salesman can kill a sale by simply using the cliché of yesterday. "You can't wear this model out. Where a buyer used to ask, "Where is the battery?" he now asks, "Where is the champagne cooler?" The customer goes for the dream car at the dream price on the dream installment plan so he can be a little more comfortable in nightmare traffic on a dream highway.

The National Auto Show has the luxury tone as never before. It is something by Dail via Ziegfeld. There is a stage with a musical show, a band on a platform shaped like a cocktail glass, and beautiful dolls everywhere. Comment: "That's a nice model" and you may get the retort, "You mean the blonde or the brunette?"

Coiffures take precedence over brakes, sex appeal eclipses transmission interest and it is quite wonderful to stare at an engine to Hit Parade music and the merry chatter of people who are having too much fun to go deeper into an auto's features than the upholstery and the mother-of-pearl ash trays. We are living in an age of opulence. (Even the motorcycle cop pursuing us is in a new de luxe model.)

My New York

—by Mel Heimer

New York—Things one New Yorker thinks about:

There have been launched a diabolical plot to undermine a Manhattan institution — the luncheon of a cigar and a Coke. There are many reasons why there are so few fat persons on the streets of New York, but one large one is that there is no place handy for the average worker to eat lunch, so he ducks into the corner drugstore and has his soft drink and gasper. I speak now, of course, of the $60-to-$100-a-week employee. Anyone making more than $100 a week in this town has only martinis for lunch.

However, just recently the Secon-Mobill people opened a huge new building at Lexington Avenue and 42nd street, just across from Grand Central terminal—and in the basement provided a mammoth dining room to take care of the 8,000 or so souls working in the building.

Here the workers get lunch for less than a dollar—in cork-lined lounges, yet—and are served food emanating from the world's most modern, all-electric, stainless-steel, block-long kitchen. R. S. Curtiss, president of the city's real estate board, nodded approvingly. "It's ironic," he commented, "that in a city with the world's greatest concentration of restaurants, more and more of our citizens find it difficult to enjoy a mid-day meal."

I know S-M means well—but I am disturbed at the thought of what 8,000 New Yorkers may do with a square luncheon meal in their stomachs. Lunch to a Manhattanite means the aforementioned soft drink and smoke, with once in a while a lettuce and tomato on whole wheat bread. Anything more substantial may be a shock to his system, and I don't want to be blamed for the consequences.

It may well be that the most frightened man in town is comic Lee Tully; he's the man who did the Elvis Presley satire for Flair records called Around the World With Elwood Pretzel. The peculiar Presley fans have threatened Tully with mayhem and even now are picketing the recording company.

Funnyman author Eddie Davis has a new book out, Laughter in Bed, and I am started to see myself credited on page 125 with a joke I never knew till now. It's not the world's greatest joke, either. Edward . . . I don't want to criticize the Fairchild aviation people, but the ad for their new F-27 plane smacks of pretty small potatoes to me. The ship costs $340,000—with radio extra.

John Cavanaugh, whose celebrated restaurant has been on 23rd street for 63 years and who was assistant food administrator under Herbert Hoover, was 90 the other day . . . Small, provincial boast: Of the 70 national corporations with assets of more than one billion dollars, 29 have their headquarters in New York.

This is a town of luxurious chophouses, but I wonder how many are more elegant than La Mer on upper Fifth avenue? Its decor includes rock crystal chandeliers from the razed mansion of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and an Italian marble fountain from the Palazzo Reale di Napoli, and its host-owner is Col. Adolphe Kramer, once court jeweler to, you should pardon the expression, King Farouk of Egypt.

On my must-buy Christmas list: Leona Anderson's new album, Music to Suffer By. "She sings I Love Paris," reports an observer, "as if she hates it." . . . There's a new television pilot film, now kicking around the ad agencies, of a sports-quint who called It Pays to Remember,

George Hoxie, in Oxford, Ohio, has devised a game for the kids that a lot of other parents might like to introduce in their homes. Hoxie calls the game "Research." Every week his youngsters leaf through one volume of the family encyclopedia, and stop to read anything that sparks their interest. They devote about a half hour a day to this — more when it's raining or they've come upon a subject that's particularly intriguing. On Sunday they give Hoxie a list of the subjects they've explored, and the quiz that follows establishes how much they've remembered. The kid that remembers most takes home the marbles. Extra dividend of "Research": Pop is learning almost as much from the game as his offspring.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Nehru Blocked Provision
Against Soviet Volunteers

Washington, Dec. 11 — Premier Nehru faces questioning on a touchy subject during his visit next week.

He'll be asked why he blocked a United Nations declaration against Soviet "volunteers" being sent to Egypt, as Khrushchev and other Kremlin czars truculently threatened at the height of that sinister crisis.

The U. S. was all set to include such a ban in its historic November 2 cease-fire resolution, but India objected.

This extraordinary backstage incident was a leading reason for the seething criticism Senator William Knowland (R., Calif.), member of the U. S. delegation, hurled at Ambassador Krishna Menon. Knowland bluntly charged him with being unduly zealous in behalf of the Reds.

Following are highlights of this revealing inside story:

On the advice of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, a strong anti-"volunteer" provision was included in the cease-fire resolution. The entire U. S. delegation heartily approved of this.

But when Ambassador Lodge showed it to Krishna Menon, he claimed the matter would have to be submitted to "my government" — meaning Nehru.

Some hours later, Menon informed Lodge the provision against Soviet "volunteers" was "not acceptable." Also that if the U. S. insisted on keeping it in the resolution, Menon would be unable to support it.

Sensors Knowland and Hubert Humphrey (D., Minn.), also a delegate, vehemently objected to "India dictating policy to us."

"It's about time India is forced to show its hand just where it stands on aggression by Communism," declared Knowland. "India is always in front against aggression by non-Afro-Asian countries, but when a Communist country is involved, somehow or other India always finds a reason for weaseling or stalling. I'm for going through with this provision and forcing a showdown on it. We know it's right and should stand by it to the end."

Sensor Humphrey argued India was in no position to oppose the resolution because of the condemnation of Red "volunteers."

"Let India abstain or do anything else it wants to against our resolution," asserted Humphrey. "I don't think Nehru or Menon will dare put themselves in such a light. Personally I think this is a bluff and we ought to call it."

But Lodge, after consulting Acting Secretary of State Herbert Hoover, Jr., told the delegation he had been "instructed" to drop the "volunteer" provision.

"The State Department feels it would be unwise to push this question at this time," explained Lodge. "India is gradually coming around to our position on Hungary, and we don't want to antagonize Nehru and Menon on the 'volunteer' matter. Too many other important things are at stake."

Knowland and Humphrey still protested, but Lodge followed "orders" from the State Department and the anti-"volunteer" declaration was deleted from the cease-fire resolution.

Lot of Homework—Secretary of State Dulles has a big good-willing job awaiting him in Washington, when he gets back from patching up relations with the British and French at the NATO conference in Paris. Dulles and Senator Theodore Green (D., R.I.), slated to be chairman of the powerful Foreign Relations Committee in the new Congress, are not on too cordial terms. The personal relations between them are far from as close and harmonious as they are between Dulles and Senator Walter George (D., Ga.), retiring chairman. So Dulles has his work cut out for him establishing better ties with Green. The latter is making no bones that's up to Dulles. Green is telling colleagues, "Dulles and his people have never gone to the trouble to take me into their confidence. Well, as they'll learn, I'm pretty independent myself. And I expect to be around here a long time after they have gone."

... Pentagon insiders are hinting military aid will be increased $100,000,000 in the President's forthcoming budget, for an overall total of $2,900,000,000. Likely combined total for both military and economic aid the President will request is $4,200,000,000 as against $4,900,000,000 that was originally proposed this year. Congress slashed that to $3,766,000,000.

Rain, Snow Combine To Form Ice Throughout Monroe County

Utilities Disrupted In Some Sections

RAIN, SLEET and snow fell on the Pocono Mountains area yesterday, leaving trees and wires covered with a coating of ice that ranged up to an inch thick.

The icy conditions caused scattered telephone and electric service disruptions in some sections of Monroe County. And spokesmen for the utilities anticipated further trouble if the mercury stayed below freezing in mountain areas, or if it took a dive in other sections.

The northern section of Monroe County was glazed with an ice-covered blanket of snow. The snow fell early in the morning and totaled almost an inch in depth. This was followed by sleet and freezing rain.

Precipitation up to 8 p. m. was measured at 1.74 inches by Harry E. Greene, official observer at Mount Pocono. This was equal to about two feet of light snow, Greene said.

At Tobyhanna, Mrs. John T. Grady said the official temperature ranged from 30 to 33 degrees during the day. At 8:30 p. m., the mercury stood at 31 degrees and it was still raining.

Measurement

Precipitation in Stroudsburg, according to measurements taken by William Hagerty, totaled 1.76 inches from the start of the storm Thursday night until 8 p. m. yesterday.

Low temperature reading was 29 degrees early yesterday morning. Later in the day, it rose to 32.4 and remained at the same level until last night.

Hagerty said the fact that the mercury stayed around the 32-degree mark prevented the early accumulation of ice from melting and also prevented the rain from freezing as it fell.

The prediction for today, said Hagerty, is for rain ending this afternoon, followed by cloudy weather and rain probable again Sunday.

W. C. G. Peterson, Bell Telephone service foreman in Stroudsburg, reported some trouble between Stroudsburg and Saylorsburg. However, no direct customers were affected because the disruption was caused on a toll cable. Service was restored a short time later.

Peterson added that checks indicated there was no trouble in Mount Pocono, Cresco, and Bushkill. Tannersville area subscribers were without telephone service yesterday afternoon.

Pennsylvania Power & Light Co. had some scattered trouble in the Mount Pocono area yesterday afternoon and evening, local manager Paul E. McBride disclosed. Although service was restored, McBride said the thermometer remained at 28 degrees in mountain areas.

Shawnee

Theodore Henning, local manager for the Metropolitan Edison Co., said his firm had some difficulties around Shawnee, between Snyder'sville and Cherry Valley, and in the Bushkill-Dingmans Ferry area.

Service was restored in all areas, except Bushkill, by an early hour last night, Henning stated.

The State Highway Department had only one cinder crew out at 11 p. m. That was dispatched to the Cresco area.

However, highway officials said they received reports that roads were getting slippery in other spots, such as Mount Pocono, and there were possibilities that additional cinder crews would be called out.

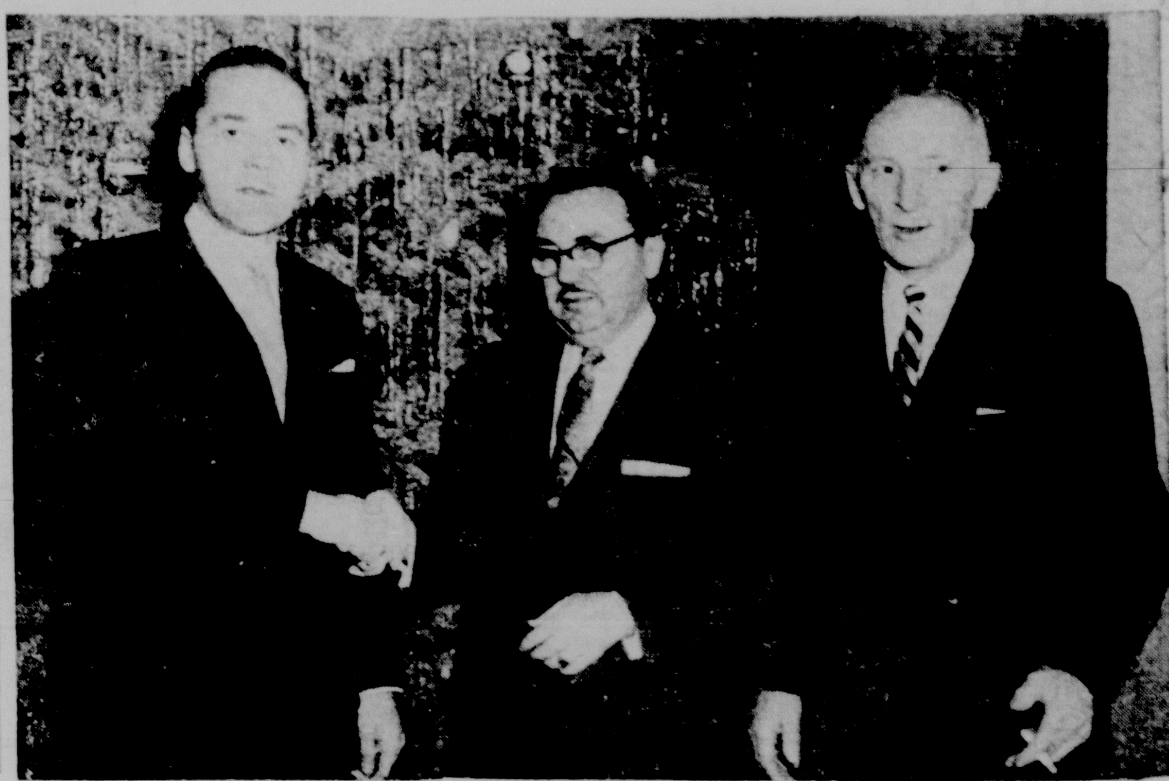

Bangor Lodge Elects Officers

BANGOR—Officers were elected and installed at the regular meeting of the Bangor Lodge 565, F. and A. M. Lodge Wednesday night. The respective officers were installed by their predecessors.

Named to office were Henry P. Williams, worshipful master; Russell T. Brown, Jr., senior warden; Kenneth Rutt, junior warden; Allen H. Dennis, treasurer; O. K. Dennis, secretary; and Edward J. Neidorf Honored At Annual Christmas Party Held By Coates Board, Carton Company

TOP officials of the Coates Board and Carton Co., Inc., attended the annual Crown Organization dinner and Christmas party at the Penn-Stroud Hotel last night.

Benjamin J. Coates, chairman of the board; Chester I. Wilson, president of the company, and Mrs. Wilson were among the honored guests. Approximately 200 persons were in attendance.

The Crown Organization is composed of veteran employees of the company. The Stroudsburg section of Coates Board and Carton Co. has been in existence for 15 years, and 62 percent of the employees have been with the company for at least five years.

Coates presented S. L. Neidorf, vice president of the Stroudsburg mill, with a diamond-studded Crown Emblem in recognition of his 25 years of service to the company.

Fifteen-year service pins were presented to C. K. Bush, H. R. Buzzard, J. A. Chobey, C. J. Getz, A. E. Kunkle, P. A. Lee, S. F. Mehas, C. C. Oliver.

Ten-year service pins were presented to A. D. Davis, H. E.

Knorr, E. T. Yost, H. H. Shafer, J. A. Wolbert.

Five-year service pins were presented to W. G. Ace, C. M. Getz, L. Houloose, A. L. Kresge, George Oney, Ray Oney.

Neidorf was presented with a leather overnight case from all of the plant employees.

Flowered corsages were presented to the ladies and gifts and prizes were given.

Reinsmith Kulowitsch and his orchestra entertained and played for both square and round dancing.

Stroudsburg Youth Jailed In Binghamton

BINGHAMTON, N. Y.—James E. Dickson, 19, who gave his address as Stroudsburg, Pa., was sentenced to 10 days in jail here this week after he was taken into custody in a Binghamton store.

The arresting officer said Dickson was attempting to shop-lift a $3.98 alarm clock, but the young man claimed he had taken it from a counter and was looking for a clerk to wrap it when he was apprehended.

Dickson told authorities he had never been arrested before.

Police checked, however, and learned he had been convicted of breaking and entering in Pennsylvania two years ago. Monroe County court records show he was committed to Camp Hill Industrial School on Dec. 14, 1954, for an indefinite term. He was a juvenile at the time.

However, highway officials said they received reports that roads were getting slippery in other spots, such as Mount Pocono, and there were possibilities that additional cinder crews would be called out.

Greene-Dreher Backing Drive For Clothes

NEWFOUNDLAND—Co-operation with the nation-wide Save the Children Federation movement will be given by a Greene-Dreher-Sterling Student Council during the week of January 7.

The council in sponsoring the local drive for good, clean clothing for distribution among the poorer children of this country and foreign countries, as well, notes that special attention will be given to Hungary this year because of the desperate need in that land.

The council is seeking to better last year's collection of 10 large containers which were sent to the Federation, filled with clothing for babies, children and adults.

Contributions by any community families will be appreciated. If donations are to be collected, any member of the student council may be contacted so that arrangements may be made.

16 Admitted To National Honor Society

NEWFOUNDLAND—A total of 16 members have been admitted to the Greene-Dreher-Sterling High chapter of the National Honor Society, according to Wallace Wilder, faculty sponsor.

The seven charter members, Geraldine Brodowsky, Judy Green, Franklin Madden, Patricia McLain, Connie Olsmmer, Ronald Robacker and Shirley Simons, have welcomed nine new members, all sophomores: Janet Barnes, Joyce Bartleson, Romayne Cunningham, Gail Hazelton, Patricia Hollister, Martin McLain, Hilda Michel, Robert Rochfort and Janice Smith.

Purpose

Aims and purposes of the society are to stimulate scholarship, leadership, service and character of students in the school, as well as to encourage students to continue their education. "It defines and marks high standards for ideal secondary school students, creates enthusiasm for scholarship, and encourages a desire on the part of the student to render service to the school and the community."

The Student Council sponsors the local chapter.

Airlines Show Strength

NEW YORK, Dec. 14—Gains by airlines, specially steels and other selected issues featured a mixed stock market today.

Pivotal stocks showed gains and losses ranging from fractions to around a point. The overall statistics showed a slight lean to the upside.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 20 cents to $180.10 with the industrials up 90 cents, the rails down 90 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Volumes totaled 2,450,000 shares compared with 2,370,000 yesterday.

Employment Available For Students Through Holidays

LOCAL RESORTS and restaurants are expecting a banner holiday season and therefore are anticipating the need for help.

The local office of Pennsylvania State Employment Service is consequently now receiving many requests for hotel and restaurant workers. The greatest need occurs in the waitress-waiter field and experience is a requirement.

Some of the jobs in resort hotels begin on Dec. 21 and continue through January 2, 1957. Room and board will be provided if desired. Persons 18 and up, particularly college students, are needed for these jobs.

Other Jobs

Other jobs are for New Year's Eve. These jobs require experienced help 21 years of age and up.

Any persons interested in working over the holidays are requested to call at the local office of the Employment Service, 79 S. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, as soon as possible.

A.F. Heller, 71, Expires In Hospital

ALLEN F. HELLER, 71, of 2020 Miller St., Stroudsburg, died yesterday at the Monroe County General Hospital at 11 p. m. He had been ill two years.

Mr. Heller was born in Hamilton Township, son of the late Edward and Nora Bartholomew Heller and has lived in Seleta and Stroudsburg all of his life.

He formerly owned and operated Heller's Diner on W. Main St. Mr. Heller was last employed at Ronson before becoming ill.

Survivors

Mr. Heller is survived by his wife, the former Minnie Dietrich; three sons, Raymond, Edward and Charles, all of Stroudsburg; two grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Frank Starnier, Butler, N. J. Two brothers, Fred and Harold Heller, both of Stroudsburg, also survive.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. from the William H. Clark funeral home. Interment will be in Stroudsburg Cemetery.

Christmas Party Held For Faculty

BANGOR—Annual Christmas party for members of the faculty of the Bangor Area Joint Schools was staged Wednesday afternoon in the home economics room of the high school under the sponsorship of the Bangor Area Branch of the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

No exchange of gifts among the faculty was held this year; instead members contributed what they would normally expend in gifts to the fund for Hungarian Relief.

A social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served. Arrangements for the function were made by the social committee headed by Mrs. Gladys Mace, Mrs. Mary Kunkle, Mrs. Joseph Keifer, Miss Harriet Connors and Mrs. Sullivan Cistone.

Portland To Feature Party

PORTLAND—Annual Christmas party for the children of Portland and vicinity sponsored by the Portland Board of Trade will be held next Thursday, at 7:30 p. m. in the new community fire house. Santa Claus will appear in a fire truck. There will be movies and refreshments. Pre-school children are also invited.

Story Of 1956 — April Chapter

April Opened With Easter, Closed With Tragic Murder

EDITOR'S NOTE:—Today's story is the fourth in a series of 12 articles to be written by Leonard Randolph. Each story will deal with one month of 1956. The articles will appear from time to time for the balance of the year.

By Leonard Randolph
APRIL, BEGAN—with the bright beauty of Easter Sunday.

It ended in a blaze of startling and terrible violence when a 13-year-old boy shot and killed a cabin colony owner at Bushkill.

In between these two starkly contrasted themes, Monroe County went its customary way, following the political war (it was primary month) and fighting through the heaviest snowfall of the year.

On April 1, Easter Sunday, Monroe County men and women made their annual pilgrimage to the cross we carry with us in our minds. It was a Sunday marked by quiet observance and a relatively austere attitude. Aside from the usual egg hunts, the fashion parade and the candy bunnies in the store windows, it was an Easter of marked simplicity and charm.

For news headlines, Monroe County got its start that same day with an announcement of a series of promotions on The Daily Record staff. Played on the front page, the news stories informed our readers that: Elton Hall, former manager, had been promoted to general manager of the Onondaga Star, another in the chain of Otway newspapers; Horace G. Heller, for many years our editor, had been named general manager of The Record. His editor's shoes were handed to John F. Hill, news editor of the paper.

Jim Riley, Record sports editor, was promoted to news editor in Hill's place and Riley's desk was then taken over by Robert Clark, former Easton sports desk man. All four men settled down to the jobs before them with a spirit and a vigor. Riley said so long in print, at least to all those sports-minded individuals who had come to think of sports on the Record and Riley almost as synonymous; took over the reins of a new column on the editorial page. Clark began authoring a new sports column called "Off the Record."

General Hospital made some news the next day, with the announcement that it was one of 3,102 fully accredited hospitals in America. The accolade had nothing to do with credit. It meant that everything was in tip-top shape over at General. We knew it all along, but it was nice to have support from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, all the same. April had more than a touch of dark memory: Down in Minisink Hills, residents floated a floral cross down the Delaware River in memory of those who had died in the 1955 flood.

East Stroudsburg Burgess Jesse R. S. Flory came out with the news that some parking tickets hadn't "been accounted for." Flory didn't explain the whole thing fully. But the borough had a new parking ticket policy from then on; if a violator was excused, the reason was written on the back of the tag. The first witness was called in the Tobyhanna Signal Depot probe. What did the man say? No one knew, exactly. But there were rumblings from the north. Along about the middle of the month, U. S. Attorney J. Julius Levy said jurors investigating alleged contract irregularities during construction of the depot would have an on-the-spot look at what those buildings looked like. They did. Couple of days later Levy made the news again when he said that all names of future witnesses would be kept "secret." Man said the ones who were gonna talk felt that they'd be "harassed" by reporters and the like if their names were published. Levy was harassed, too, but he gave reporters the same old "no comment." Most of the time, it worked.

Stroud Union School Board opened bids totaling $1,096,611 for its new building program; later the same bids were approved and accepted by the school authority. Board members said they were surprised (and pleased) to find out maybe the thing wasn't going to cost as much as they'd thought before. On April 23, however, the district approved a whopping $715,000 budget; said it was afraid taxes might have to be raised to 45 mills on real estate.

Stroudsburg Council agreed to pay $633,560 for the Monroe County Water Supply Co. Council also stepped forward a little toward formation of a borough parking authority and signed an agreement with the Public Housing Administration accepting a flat payment in lieu of taxes on proposed subsidized housing units in the borough.

Pocono Mountains Motor Club took a firm, unwavering stand against "litterbugs"—those thoughtless individuals who toss their Kleenex and paper bags out of car windows; said the practice was cluttering up our beautiful countryside. Pretty soon you might not be able to see the forest for the sneeze.

Army Engineers announced in Philadelphia that the Stroudsburg flood control survey was going to be the most comprehensive of its type ever undertaken. Few days later a local flood control council was officially formed with Charles Bensinger as temporary chairman. We had our own hearing on a dam for the Delaware on the 20th. Col. Allen Clark, Philadelphia district engineer, said that Tock's Island might prove to be a better site for an all-purpose dam than Wallpack Bend. Reasons: Tock's Island would provide an estimated 60 percent greater water storage capacity. This would give it much greater value as a flood control dam. More flood control value would mean more change of Federal participation in construction. It sounded like a simple equation, but there was one missing element: How feasible was Tock's Island as a dam site? Seismological soundings to determine that came later.

Monroe County auditors voiced strong criticism of the previous county commissioners in their annual report on grounds that they had failed to keep their books posted until the end of the year. Auditors said, also, that the commissioners had transferred a total of $47,000 from liquid funds to funds into the general and institutions accounts and "This procedure is expressly prohibited by statute and by the constitution of Pennsylvania." They said further that a "note executed in June, 1955 to secure a loan" from a local bank "although cancelled and receipted" apparently is not in the file in the commissioners' office and didn't show up on the books.

A total of 17,524 persons registered to vote in the primary. Democrats had 10,238 and the Republicans had 7,045. The primary gave victories to incumbent Rep. Van D. Yetter, Democrat and H. L. Cleveland, Republican. One-time chief clerk Henry McCool lost his bid for the Democratic nomination by nearly 900 votes; Robert Van Pool lost his (GOP) fight by more than 600. The vote was, as usual, light in the primary. For small boys with sleds it was a good month along about April 8: the county had from four to 12 inches of snow. The Red Cross officials begged the State to get something done about those bridges on Route 611 at Bartonville; the State later said it hoped to have them up for bid in a couple of weeks. The new Boy Scout reservation at Resica Falls was dedicated on April 15.

Fish warden Floyd Bachman told our man Paul Carlson that things looked better than anyone expected for the 1956 trout season. Heavy stocking (39,788 new trout for the opening) should put things on a bright level, the man said. Come the first day of the season, we had rain. For them what what showed up, it was good, though. Officials estimated the average "catch" at five trout.

Word came through that Jack Gelinas, East Stroudsburg boy who is now busy influencing everybody's attitude toward business as a public relations man, was going to lecture at his old alma mater, Easton U. It was a sort of double "local boy makes good" story and one of the bright spots in April. Gelinas won his spurs helping regenerate Robert Young win control of the New York Central, you may recall.

Out in Harrisburg, Senate Republicans stirred up a little unrest when they split on the sales tax stamp issue in our good Commonwealth. Finally everyone agreed that the best thing to do was just collect those little old pennies—on the theory, perhaps, that if you can't lick 'em, join 'em.

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College faculty members heard one note of promising news (not to be confused with a promissory note). The State said it was going to give them more money starting pretty soon. A young Stroud township boy, David L. Everett, 14, was accidentally killed when the 22 caliber revolver with which he'd been playing, discharged.

There was a bit of season's good cheer for Stroudsburg borough, too: the State forwarded its check for $55,000 as its share of cost on a new sewage plant in the borough. Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau held its annual "Hotel Show" in the Penn-Stroud Hotel garage; pronounced it a marked success. County Commissioners said they were going to grant abatement of 1955 taxes on flood-damaged properties.

That prestige to pay off in the end. The end, as almost everyone knew, was a long way down the lane.

Monroe County's favorite songwriter—man named George Graff who once co-authored a pop tune "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling"—came out with one of those exclusive "tell all" stories for us, of all newspapers. We thought it was one of the best "inside Graff" stories imaginable. The man had a real story to tell.

Seems as though George G. is our area's most popular beauty contest judge. We tried to find out how he got the job in the first place, but it didn't work. Anyway, Mr. G. had a couple of minor (tongue-in-cheek) complaints to make, said the whole thing was a real tough job. Especially when it comes to pinning the winning banner around the winsome (or buxom) lass who had won first prize. Conflict between small suit and great expanses of epidermis, he said. No place to put the pins.

We took the whole thing with a grain of salt, and an Irish coffee) and told Mr. G. that if he really wanted replacements to call us any old time. We're still waiting for the phone to ring.

No matter how varied in interest or light in tempo the month may have been, it ended on a dark level of tragedy and psychological disturbance.

At Dingmans Ferry a 13-year-old boy named James Van Why left the home of his grandmother, with whom he had lived most of his life. He went to a cottage near his home, took a gun from it and wandered to the property of Edward W. Ebele, 48, a cabin colony owner. When Ebele saw the boy target shooting on the hill above his home, he went out and told him to stop.

The boy turned the gun on the older man and killed him. When Ebele's wife, Margaret, ran out of the house and tried to stop the boy, she was shot, too.

James Van Why was picked up a short time later by Milford State police.

The machinery of law and order had moved swiftly and silently. In the Pike County prison, a young boy sat in a cell, waiting for the time of his arraignment before the law to come.

But police and the district attorney were left with a massive body of disturbing questions. At month's end they were still trying to figure out why the shooting had happened.

It was a hard question. And there was no easy answer.

Discovery Of Manuscripts Important To Religion

By Paul Carlson

LITTLE did an Arab shepherd suspect that his discovery would inaugurate a new era of Biblical studies when he came across several manuscripts in the Dead Sea area of Palestine in 1947.

Since then, more than 400 manuscripts have been found in the region. To unroll these ancient writings, scholars had to use many ingenious devices. In one instance, they used a very fine iron saw to cut along both sides of the rolled up lengths. The resulting strips were then photographed.

Another very difficult problem has been the matter of dating the manuscripts. To find a solution, scholars have compared the Hebrew alphabets in the Dead Sea Scrolls and other ancient manuscripts, working backwards from the 11th Century, A.D., to the 3rd Century, B.C. They have also employed the radio-carbon (or Carbon 14) test, whereby the age of a substance is thought to be established by measuring the disintegration of a sample destroyed under controlled conditions by Carbon 14.

But the most serious—and perplexing—problem facing scholars rests in interpreting the relationship of these scrolls, and the sect which produced them, have on the origins of Christianity.

Scholar

No less an archaeological scholar than Dr. William F. Albright of Johns Hopkins University, has declared: "The new evidence with regard to the beliefs and practices of Jewish sectarians of the last two centuries, B.C., bids fair to revolutionize our approach to the beginnings of Christianity."

A storm of protest was created recently when John Allegro of the University of Manchester, England, said in a British radio address that the origins of some Christian rituals and doctrines could be traced in the documents of Qumran a century before Christ.

Mr. Allegro also cited what he termed parallels between the life and teachings of Jesus and those of the "Teacher of Righteousness," leader of the Qumran community.

Even so staunch an orthodox scholar as Dr. Edward J. Young of Westminster Theological Seminary, has declared: "Sufficient time has elapsed . . . so that it is now possible to speak with some positiveness as to the relationship these scrolls bear to the origins of Christianity."

However, a large group of Protestant and Catholic scholars urge "caution" over what they regard as overly hasty interpretations of the scrolls.

"Definite judgments and syntheses must wait until all the materials are available for study and the experts have had their say," recently commented the Very Rev. John J. Dougherty, professor of Sacred Scripture at Immaculate Conception Seminary, Darlington, N. J.

Because of wide-spread interest in this subject, The Daily Record has invited two local clergymen to express their views on the scrolls:

REV. DAVID C. NEWQUIST, Shawnee and Middle Smithfield

Presbyterian churches: "In your mind perhaps has arisen the question: 'What precisely are the Dead Sea Scrolls and of what significance are they to me and my Faith?' Another question is often asked: 'Is it true these scrolls may completely change the traditional understanding of the Bible and violently shake the foundations of established religion?'"

"The Bedouins who discovered the documents hoped to find precious jewels or gold. How disappointed they were when they discovered only leather rolls, containing writings wrapped in black cloth. This was the simple beginning of a series of events which led to these important discoveries of documents containing complete writings of Isaiah, commentaries on the Book of Habakkuk, and what is known as the Manual of Discipline, or the Order of the Community. Another scroll describes what is called the War of the Sons of Light with the Sons of Darkness. There are also thanksgiving psalms, 20 of which are closely similar to those in the Old Testament."

"The attempt to date these documents has had some unusual features. At first, much was made of the jars in which the documents were stored. Then the question was raised, 'What crisis or catastrophe would have led a community to hide their books as these people must have done?'" Then portions of the cloth covering the scrolls were submitted to the radio-carbon test, which proved that the wrappings found in the caves would be dated approximately between the Second Century, B.C., to the First Century, A.D.

"The nature of the script and the evidence of the ink itself also suggested this conclusion. 'Let us now look at the significance of the scrolls in respect to our faith.'"

"Quoting the words of Dr. Charles Fritsch of Princeton Theological Seminary, and well-known in the Poconos: 'The Bible texts from Qumran have amazingly confirmed the validity of the Hebrew text which has served as the basis for the translation of our English Bible.' Concurring with him is Prof. Bledyn Roberts, who stated that, contrary to what may be expected, the Isaiah scroll is astounding similar to the Masoretic text. Verse by verse, often word by word, the texts are similar."

"We may conclude that the essenes in the Qumran Community had a definite effect upon our Christian practices and teachings. There is little doubt but that John the Baptist was the key figure through whom many of the doctrines of the Qumran sect found their way into early Christianity. John the Baptist centers his teaching around the great theme: 'Repent,' believing himself to be the one called of God to prepare the way for the Messiah. He possibly had separated himself from the community, which believed itself, through the study of the Torah and through dedicated living, to be preparing the way for the Messiah."

Conclusion

"Likewise, we may conclude that the Fourth Gospel in an authentic source concerning John the Baptist, and that the ideas expressed in the Fourth Gospel are closely connected with the teachings found in the documents."

"Let us view one more question: 'Was Jesus a member of the Qumran Community? Was He simply a product of the teaching of His day, or was He uniquely the Christ, whom we believe Him to be?'"

"Firstly, in the community of the Essenes we find no universal love, no love for one's enemies, only hatred for those outside the elect group. They were looking for the Messiah, whereas Christ claimed Himself to be the Messiah. Of Him, there was no atoning work of the Messiah, no revelation of the Holy Spirit, as at Pentecost, no Trinity."

"Just as John was the interim prophet between the Old and New Testaments, so this group of dedicated people was the interim community between the old covenant and the new."

"What shall we then say in respect to these Dead Sea Scrolls and our Christian Faith? Certainly we can thank God. For here we have one more source which gives us a better understanding of the days in which Jesus lived and in which the Christian Church was born."

REV. CHARLES A. PARK, Christ Episcopal Church, Stroudsburg

"Whenever some new archaeological discovery is made, which is likely to have some news value for the general public as well as professional value for the scholars, you can depend upon it that a shower of books will drop from the literary sky to capitalize on the discovery and 'get there first with the mostest.'"

"And particularly if the said archaeological discovery has anything to do with Christianity and its origins and backgrounds, the shower of books becomes a veritable cloudburst, as every would-be author and scholar rushes in to prove beyond all doubt that the new discovery (which, of course, always is said to be about to turn the world upside down) is proving what that author has been saying for years."

"Such a phenomenon is occurring with the finding and publishing of the manuscripts produced by the Qumran Community on the shores of the Dead Sea."

General
"In general, those authors whose scholarship is guided by their prejudices, found what they wanted to find. And so the reading public was treated to several popularly written, but wholly premature volumes, in which it was set forth that these Dead Sea Scrolls proved that Christianity was nothing more than an outgrowth of the Essene Sect of Judaism which, when it mingled with other religions in the Gentile world, developed by a natural evolution into the religious system, widely divergent within itself, that we know today."

"And as a corollary to this view, Jesus was simply a man — the Master, the Great Teacher, etc.—but certainly not Lord and Savior, the Second Person of the Trinity made Man, certainly not the Eternal Power and Wisdom of God by whom and for whom all things were made, and by whom all men are redeemed."

"But more mature Biblical scholarship has turned to this conclusion: That many of the positions of the liberals, especially at the extremes, will have to be abandoned, while not one of the positions of the conservatives will have to be either modified or discarded. Neither need anything in the Scriptures be rejected, nor can the singular uniqueness of the Person and Work of the God-Man, Jesus Christ, be affected or diminished in any way."

"In brief, the Dead Sea Scrolls throw a further valuable light on the type of religious thought and organization in Israel as the appointed time drew near for the Lord Messiah to become 'incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary.' For the birth of His Son, God had prepared the world philosophically through the Greeks, politically through the Romans, and religiously through the Jews."

"The scrolls give us a fuller knowledge of the religious preparation of the Jews for the coming of Him who was 'a light to lighten the Gentiles and the glory of Thy people Israel.'"

Radio Description

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP)— Moscow radio describes Siberia as a land richer in gold than the Klondike, in addition to having rich deposits of diamonds, rubies, emeralds and amethysts. It claims coal deposits in Siberia's Kuznets Basin alone amount to more than a trillion tons, enough to feed all the thermal power stations in the world for more than a thousand years.

Koster Wins Prizes In Photography

AL KOSTER, new comer to Pocono Camera Club ranks, succeeded in gaining the first two spots in recent color competition, with "Washington Bridge" and Alaska's "Eklutna Lake." Third place went to H. V. Leida, with "Window Rock." Fourth and fifth places were captured by Guy P. Dean with "Wild Thistle," and "Indian Corn."

Top honors went to Leida in the black and white division, followed by Dean and Irving Sommer.

Model Night
Prints of recent model night were displayed and occasioned much favorable comment, club officers said. Each year the program committee selects one object to be photographed by individual members. This central theme may be combined with any number of ideas to produce an interesting print.

The subject this year is a lantern. Only the ingenuity and imagination of the individual limits the scope of the undertaking according to a club spokesman. Last year the subject was a statuette, producing many outstanding pictures. The annual Christmas party will be held Dec. 20. Reservations are being handled by Irving Sommer.

Transient Claims 'I'm Not Crazy'

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14 (AP)— A gangling, skid row transient who boasts that he has killed 11 persons said today: "I'm not crazy. I'm perfectly normal. I know I'll get the gas chamber but that's part of the game."

Stephen Nash, a 33-year-old convict, was picked up on skid row with a bloody knife in his possession last week.

Sale Of Seals Hits $8,505.85

SLIGHTLY LESS than $3,000 is now needed to push the Christmas Seal campaign over the top, it was reported yesterday by the Monroe County Tuberculosis and Health Society.

Contributions received during the day sent the total to $8,505.85. The goal is $11,500.

Letters

Receipts to date are from 4,874 replies to 9,057 letters containing Christmas Seals which were mailed at the beginning of the drive.

All persons who have not yet replied are urged to respond to the appeal at the earliest convenient date, the TB Society said.

CD Film To Be Shown At Sherman

A SPECIAL showing of the new Civil Defense film "Crisis" will be held for members of the Chamber of Commerce and Civil Defense personnel in the Sherman Theater on Monday at 1:45 p.m. Showing time is approximately 15 minutes. There will be no charge for admittance.

The film, put out by the Federal Civil Defense Administration and Excella Corporation depicts flood emergencies as they have occurred recently in various parts of the country. Several views of Stroudsburg and nearby points, made during the flood, are included in the coverage.

Paul Crawn, executive director of Monroe County Civil Defense, said yesterday, "This is one of the finest flood films yet to appear. The narrative, done by Bob Considine of International News, is informal and excellent, the photography excitingly dramatic, and the handling of the theme extremely well done. Every Civil Defense worker should see this motion picture. It has impact and message."

Community Chorus Sings At Banquet

Tannersville — Program, setting, decorations and attendance at the Poccono Garden Club's annual Christmas banquet at Brookdale-on-the-Lake on Tuesday night made the affair an outstanding one for the 78 members and friends who attended.

The program featured songs by the Poccono Community Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Reuben Treible, with Mrs. Alberta Yutz as soloist. Joining the chorus for familiar carols was the whole assembly.

Mrs. Elsie Besecker, president, presided at the dinner. Arthur Ifft and Miss Margaret MacLaren spoke briefly and served as judges of the Christmas arrangements on display in the soda shop.

Sweepstake award winners were Mrs. John Smith, first; Mrs. Clyde White second, and Mrs. James Canfield and Mrs. Charles Besecker, tied for third place. Winners in the individual classes in order of their awards were: Decorated tree, Mrs. James Canfield, Mrs. Clyde White, Mrs. Lucy Hartman; tree ornament, Mrs. Charles Besecker, Mrs. Harry Hay, Mrs. Millard Rice; corsage, Mrs. Charles Besecker, Mrs. Donald Hartman, Mrs. Millard Rice; wreaths, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Clyde White; door decorations, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Frank Hertig, Mrs. R. J. Howell; dining room or buffet, Mrs. M. Rice, Mrs. J. Smith, Mrs. Donald Hartman; coffee table, Mrs. Clyde White, Mrs. Haviland Heller, Mrs. Lucy Hartman; mantel, Mrs. Marjorie Canfield, Mrs. Fred Metzgar.

The banquet was served at four long tables radiating from the speaker's table. They were decorated in greens, cones and ornaments. Favors and place cards were half-moonballs with green or red candles and ribbons, with sequins and place cards attached. The decorating committee included Mrs. Frank Hertig, Mrs. Ruth Leman, Mrs. Lucy Hartman, Mrs. Cora Smith, Mrs. Clyde White, and Mrs. Elsie Besecker.

Swiftwater WSCS Party This Saturday

Swiftwater — The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Swiftwater Methodist Church held their December meeting recently in the social hall. The president, Mrs. Lillian Hamlin was in charge of the meeting with Mrs. Ruth Besecker in charge of devotions.

During the business meeting a report was given on the turkey supper held in November. Plans were made for the annual Christmas party to be held Saturday, December 15. Secret Pals will be revealed. Those members not having a Secret Pal are asked to bring a gift for exchange. Committees for the party were appointed.

Hostess for the January meeting will be Mrs. Ada Willard and Mrs. Hilda Reiss. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. Lillian Hamlin and Mrs. Sue Rowe to the eight members present.

Faithful Workers Entertained At The Hobbs Home

Hamilton Township — The Faithful Workers' Class of the Hamilton Union Sunday School met at the home of Henrietta Hobbs, Scotia, on Tuesday night, Dec. 11, with Lydia Howter presiding; a Scripture by Mrs. Hobbs and prayer by Rev. Adan A. Bohner.

Mrs. Howter was re-elected as president. Other officers elected were Bessie Metzgar, vice president; Emma Haney, secretary; Ethel Rinker, treasurer; Ruth Shoenaker, reporter; Bessie Metzgar, flower fund; Ida Dennis, pianist.

A Christmas party with exchange of gifts and refreshments followed. Present were Rosa Butts, Ethel Rinker, Anna Rosa, Ida Dennis, Lydia Howter, Susan Bittenbender, Bertha Haney, Bessie Metzgar, Rev. and Mrs. Adan Bohner. Leah Keller Is Bride Of E. C. Heeter

Miss Leah Leona Keller, daughter of Frank Keller and the late Marguerite Keller of 69 Ridgeway Street, East Stroudsburg, became the bride of Elwood Charles Heeter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Heeter of East Stroudsburg RD 2, at 3 o'clock last Saturday afternoon before the candle-lit altar of Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg. The single-ring nuptial rite was solemnized before the chrysanthemum-graced altar by Rev. William F. Wunder, Grace Church pastor.

Mrs. Shirley Weaver, sister of the bride was matron of honor. Edward A. Heeter, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Both bride and matron of honor wore identical ensembles of winter white linen suits, black accessories and corsages of red rose buds.

The bride was graduated from East Stroudsburg High School with the class of 1943 and is employed by the Hughes Publishing Company. The bridegroom attended the Smithfield Consolidated School and is employed at Kulp's Foundry in East Stroudsburg.

Immediately after their wedding the bride couple was feted at a reception at Stanky's Craigs Meadows Hotel with 150 guests. A brief honeymoon of unannounced destination followed. The newlyweds will be at home to their friends at Analomink.

Coolbaugh PTA Party Monday Night

Tobyhanna — The Coolbaugh Township Parent Teachers Association will make practical application of their program theme "The Child, the School and the Community" at their meeting on Monday night at 8 when the parents are invited to bring their children, and the community is invited to join them.

Dr. David Brodhead will give the devotions and the program will be under the direction of Mrs. Arch Aucher. The school glee club will sing and a film, "The Spirit of Christmas" will be shown.

Santa Claus will distribute gifts to the children, and refreshments will be served.

Analomink PTA Hears Dr. Warren

Analomink — A Christmas party for the children of the Analomink school will be sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Association of the school on Friday, Dec. 21. Refreshments will be served. It was decided at the PTA meeting held Tuesday night with Mrs. William Pfeiffer presiding.

The school's Christmas entertainment will be given on Thursday night at 8 p.m. in the Analomink Church, it was announced. The public is invited.

Also discussed at the meeting was the matter of purchasing playground equipment for the school. A letter was read from Earl Groner, Stroud Union District Superintendent, granting the PTA permission to purchase and install equipment with the understanding that in case the school is closed the equipment will remain in Analomink. Harry Anton, principal of the Analomink school, discussed the new trends in playground equipment, its structure and underlying philosophy.

The association also approved a Christmas gift of $5 for Albert Pensyl, school custodian. An attendance list resulted in the banner being awarded Mrs. Weidman's room for two weeks.

Dr. Lee Donald Warren, professor of social studies at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, spoke on "How to Prevent Juvenile Delinquency." Juvenile delinquency, he said, is America's number one social problem today.

Juvenile delinquency is rare among the Jewish people in America, he said, because of the training which the Jewish child received from infancy in the home and in the synagogue. He is very early imbued with a realization of the meaning of social life and his personal responsibility to God, to society and to himself, with religion an important part in this training. On the other hand, he said there are 27,000,000 young people of school age growing up in this country without any contacts with the church.

In the growing up process, young people must achieve four definite goals, he said, listing emancipation from parental control, the development of heterosexuality, the acceptance of responsibility, and the exercise of self control as necessities to effective adulthood. He illustrated his talk with poetry. A question and answer period followed.

After the meeting, a Christmas party was held with a covered dish supper in the cafeteria which was lighted by a Christmas tree and decorations. There was an exchange of gifts and a social hour.

Mrs. Nicholas Heads Kunkletown Fire Co. Aux.

Kunkletown — At the meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Kunkletown Volunteer Fire Company held Monday evening in the Community Hall officers were elected for the coming year. Elections were: President, Mrs. Leon Nicholas; vice president, Mrs. Alvin Christman; secretary, Mrs. Walter Smith; financial secretary, Miss Bertha Ziegenfuss; treasurer, Mrs. Herman Barlieb; chaplain, Mrs. Marlene Christman.

They voted in favor of the purchase of a new refrigerator and freezer for the kitchen of the community hall. They also planned at this meeting another of the card parties which have become so popular. This one to be held in the hall Saturday evening, December 22 and will feature special Christmas prizes.

Canvassing committees for new memberships were appointed with Ruby Frantz and Maisie Balliet covering the Saylorsburg section, Pearl Berger and Helen Smith the Fiddletown section, Carrie Smith, Mildred Weiss and Florence Smith the Smith Gap area and Mabel and Minnie Christman the Chestnut Hill area.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

The girls in our gift wrap department certainly have no time on their hands these days, but Blanche Macley has time on her wrist, and it's beautiful — a gleaming gold Wittnauer watch with expansion band, presented her by Frigidaria because of her sales record.

Notice a new Automatic Bookend just arrived in our gift department. It is actually a very wide spring of metal that is securely attached in the center to a flat, leatherette-covered stand. The spring ends curl prettily, but adjust themselves to make room for any books that are inserted. Withdraw a book, and the sides immediately clamp together to hold securely any that are remaining. The price is 3.50. A very acceptable gift for your favorite bookworm.

In our gift department I also located several pairs of those very slender metal bookends so popular with teachers and others who have limited desk space. These are painted with flowers, and are priced at 1.98. If you are a follower of TV's "64,000 Question" and "864,000 Challenge" you may be interested in the newly arrived book, "Fragrant Viking" by Peter Freuchen. Freuchen, you'll recall, won the question, and subdued a challenger to the tune of some additional thousands recently. The book is marked 5.00 and seems to be packed with interesting reading material.

As a matter of fact, our stationery department received stacks of books yesterday. In the assortment were several Modern Library copies of "War and Peace." The Tolstoy novel which has seen a rebirth of interest as a result of the motion picture; Rebecca West's "The Fountain Overflows." Bennett Cerf's "The Life of the Party," and Betty Crocker's 1,000 cook book, "Good and Easy." This is the book I mentioned several days ago as being a favorite with Victoria Kasperli — remember? Mrs. Predmore tells me EVERYONE loves it — that she's sold dozens of them. Oh, yes, and we received several copies of Vicki's book too — "How to Make Cut Flowers Last."

If a friend on your gift list is a collector of salt and pepper shakers, she will undoubtedly be delighted by a remembrance from our assortment at 1.00 a pair. Among those you'll find at Wyckoff's are: a grandfather's clock paired with an easy chair; a coffee grinder, paired with a coffee pot; a pipe and slipper; a Bible and old-fashioned oil lamp; a cut cake on a platter and a piece of cake on a plate; a mouse and a mousetrap; the Liberty Bell and the scroll with the Declaration of Independence; an opened album showing family photographs and a camera; a spool of thread and a thimble, and holly leaves and berries that would be delightful on the Christmas dinner table. It's little things like these that, in seasoning or not, add spice to life.

In our gift department you'll also find handmade dolls from far away lands that are both toys and collectors' items; knife sharpening stones, artistically encased in plastic; "good luck elephants" from India and Africa, of handsomely carved ebony with real ivory tusks, and one of the cutest artificial trees we've seen this year — a green one decorated entirely in gold, with angels, ribbon bows, beads, and swaying ornaments.

Don't forget Walter Logan's department if you're an artist on your gift list. In his little store on our Wyckoff parking lot you'll find picture frames, sketch pads, charcoal and pastels, fixatives, easels, palettes, palette knives, oils, canvases, and just about anything else his or her heart may desire. And don't overlook our Sears store when shopping—that too is crammed with wonderful gift suggestions. WYCKOFF'S IS SANTA'S OWN STORE.

ANNOUNCEMENT HAS BEEN made that Bud Collyer, popular television and radio personality, will assume the emcee chores on the new panel-quizz show "Nothing But the Truth" which premieres over CBS Television Tuesday, at 9 p. m. Doing the guessing on the panel will be songstress Polly Bergen, newscaster John Cameron Swayze, comedian Dick Van Dyke and actress Hilly Parks. Three people will appear and claim they are the same person, and the panel will strive to find out which of the contestants is telling the truth.

Sports fans may have two choices this afternoon, when at 2 p. m. Ch. 2 will offer a pro football game from Connie Mack Stadium, Philadelphia, between the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Eagles, and Chs. 3 and 4 will present at 2:30 p. m. pro basketball between the Philadelphia Warriors and the Syracuse Nationals. . . . College basketball will come to viewers at 9 p. m. on Ch. 11 from Madison Square Garden, with St. John's meeting Rhode Island State.

Jackie Gleason and his star supporting cast, Art Carney, Audrey Meadows and Joyce Randolph, all play dual roles when Gleason attempts to "Catch A Star" on "The Honeymooner" sketch at 8 p. m. on Chs. 2 and 10. The hilarity starts when Ralph Kramden attempts to get television star Jackie Gleason for the annual Raccoon Lodge dance. The cast will play the roles of the Kramdens and the Norbors, as well as their real life counterparts. . . . At the same time on Chs. 3 and 4 Perry Como will be entertaining Groucho Marx and daughter, Melinda; and vocalists Jo Stafford and Johnny Ray. . . . Following at 9 p. m. on Chs. 6 and 7 Lawrence Welk and the Champagne Music-makers should put everyone in a holiday mood with such numbers as "Don't Wait Till the Night Before Christmas," "Too Fat for the Chimney," "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" and "Winter Wonderland."

Deer Follows Portland Man Across Street

PORTLAND—William H. Cowell received quite a surprise Wednesday morning while he was walking across Delaware Ave.

Following closely behind him was a large deer. When Cowell turned around, the animal took off across the street and disappeared between the buildings.

Four
It was one of four deer—one buck and three does—which swam the river from Columbia, N. J., to Portland. The one walked up Main St., while the others went behind the houses on Main St.

Patsy Ribble, who was walking along the street with her dog, saw the lone deer about the same time as Cowell saw it. She said it dashed away behind the houses to join the other three.

Beers Sets Record In Eastburg Win

Push Shot Artist's 40-Spree Establishes School Mark As Cavaliers Top Coplay, 74-60

COPLAY—East Stroudsburg High's push shot specialist King Beers set a new Cavalier individual scoring record as he led Dough Schoonover's five to a 74-60 victory over Coplay here last night.

Beers, hitting from the outside mostly and connecting on eight of 11 foul tries, poured in 40 markers to establish a one-game record for a Cavalier player.

Bangor Edges Pen Argyl In L-N Opener

BANGOR—Bangor High opened its championship bid in the Lehigh-Northampton League successfully here last night by turning back arch-rival Pen Argyl, 57-51.

The Slaters of new coach Walter Vanderbush broke out of a half-time deadlock by outscoring the visitors 12-6 in the third quarter and holding on to the edge, matching Pen Argyl 14-14 in the final eight minutes.

Pen Argyl, with Mondello hitting on one-handers, and Bilheimer sets, gained a 16-14 advantage the first quarter.

However, Bangor's J. L. Williams started to strike from the outside and Frank Butz underneath and the Slaters knotted the score at 31-all before the intermission.

Williams High was the game's top scorer with 17 tallies, followed by Mondello's 15. Frank Butz also chipped in 13.

In the preliminary, Pen Argyl's underlings posted an easy 53-45 victory over Bangor's Little Slaters.

The boxscore:

Giants Can Cinch NFL East Title At Philadelphia

Dame Fortune, Cellar Eagles Stand In Way

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14 (AP)—Dame fortune and the Philadelphia Eagles willing, the New York Giants can clinch the Eastern Conference crown of the National Football League here tomorrow.

The Giants, rated one of the best balanced clubs in the pro loop, will be at top form—highly regarded favorites to down the last place Eagles.

The Giants need a tie or better to sew up the conference title. Only a loss would leave the way open for the Washington Redskins, who would have to take both their remaining games to win the conference race.

Settle Tomorrow

The Western Division title will be settled by Sunday's Chicago Bears-Detroit Lions battle at Chicago.

The Eagles are beleaguered by injuries that left the club at about 60 per cent of full manpower. Only two of the team's running halfbacks—Willie Berzinski and Ted Weger—will be on call for full time action against the Giants.

On the New York side of the picture, only linebacker Harlan Sware is unfit for duty. Both the Giant top halfbacks—Frank Gifford and Alex Webster—will be ready to star.

The Giants contend that their three losses this year (they've won seven and been tied once) came because their big defensive tackles, Dick Modzelewski and Roosevelt Grier, were bottled up by the opposition. The Eagles weren't able to handle this pair when the Birds lost to the Giants 30-3 on Oct. 28.

Plans Shifts

Eagle coach Hugh Devore, in an effort to take care of the Modzelewski-Grier combination, plans to move his best blocker, Buel Lansford, to the left guard spot and shifted Dick Murley, 247-pound rookie from Purdue, to the left tackle position alongside him.

The Giants' offense will hinge on the running success of Gifford and Webster, plus the passing of quarterback Chuck Conerly.

Bobby Thomason, the Philadelphia signal caller, will be the top aerial man for the Birds.

The game will be carried over the Columbia television and radio networks (2 p.m.) with the Philadelphia area blacked out on TV.

Skins Face Steelers

The Redskins will get one of their remaining games out of the way when they meet the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday. Other scheduled Sunday games pit the Cardinals against the Browns at Cleveland, the Green Bay Packers against the Los Angeles Rams at Los Angeles, and the Baltimore Colts against the San Francisco 49ers also on the West Coast.

MacPhail, director of the club's farm system since 1949, will continue to work with the minor league clubs but also will have the job of negotiating contracts with the Yankee players.

Newly Created

The new position was created after Bill DeWitt, formerly assistant to General Manager George Weiss, resigned to become baseball coordinator between the major and minor leagues.

MacPhail, 39, is the son of Larry MacPhail, former part owner of the Yankees. He worked in other baseball organizations before joining the Yanks in 1946.

MacPhail today was named director of baseball personnel of the New York Yankees. He will be assisted by Johnny Johnson who has been connected with the Yanks for 10 years.

TO BOWL IN $40,000 PIN CLASSIC—Two of the entries in the Pocono-Slate Bolt $40,000-plus Bowling Tournament will be Joe Bolek, left, and Fred Fikes, right, two members of the nationally known Pabst Blue Ribbon team. Fikes, a 43-year-old veteran of the alleys, has averaged over 205 in top competition for years, while Bolek, 44, is considered one of the top keepers in Cleveland. Both have been instrumental in leading Pabst to the 1955-56 championships in major tournaments.

No Great Rush Among Colleges To Follow Ivy League's Pressure-less Grid Program

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP)—Although a lot of college administrators and some newspapermen think the Ivy League's pressure-less football program is almost ideal, there's no great rush to follow the lead of the Ivies.

Some writers who couldn't see the big time colleges de-emphasizing football to the extent that the eight old eastern universities have pointed out that there likely will be some retrenchment—due mainly to the competition for star players and to the mounting costs of football.

Those same costs also were given as a reason why a lot of colleges will continue on a high-pressure basis to get teams that will produce plentiful gate receipts.

Minor League
"Ivy League football is viewed as minor league stuff and it would be hard to convince a Midwesterner that their varsities could whip Big Ten frosh teams," wrote one Midwestern observer. "They want big time football in the Midwest and will keep it."

Another Midwestern comment: "No. You can't convince Minnesotans Ivy League teams do not recruit. They've given the gophers a hard time bidding for state talent."

An Eastern writer (from Ivy territory) observed: "No. And I hope not."

Why Follow Losers
From the southwest came these two conflicting comments: "No. Why follow a bunch of losers?"

"The Ivy League is unique because of its enlightened alumni, and deserves the unique setup it is entering. I can't see any other group, made up of schools pushed by high-pressure fan support, going Ivy League."

Mike Fetchick Fires Record-Tying 63 To Take Sanford Open Lead With 12-Under-Par 128

SANFORD, Fla., Dec. 14 (AP)—Mike Fetchick's unerring aim with the putter sent him flying out front in the $10,000 Sanford Open golf tournament today.

He knocked in seven birdie putts for a score of 63 that tied the competitive record for the 6,207-yard Mayfair course. Together with his opening round 65, Fetchick, 34, reached the halfway point in the tournament with 128 strokes—12 under par.

3 Strokes Ahead
The professional from Lake Ma-

hopac, N.Y., who almost gave up golf after World War II because of chronic stomach trouble, went ahead of Dow Finsterwald, the first round leader, by three strokes.

Finsterwald, 27, an up and coming pro from Bedford Heights, Ohio, added a 67 to his opening 64 for 131.

Tied For Third
Chuck Malchowski of Addison, Ill., and Frank Siranahan of Toledo, Ohio, equalled their opening 66s and tied for third at 132.

Five others were within six strokes of the leader: Jay Hebert of Sanford and Dick Turner of San Angelo, Tex., at 133; Arnold Palmer of Youngstown, Pa.; Gardner Dickinson Jr., of Panama City Beach, Fla., and Julius Boros of Southern Pines, N.C., at 134.

MRS. GEORGE Young has returned home from the Allentown General Hospital.

Students of the Pen Argyl High School will enjoy their annual Christmas party next Thursday afternoon from 3 to 3:45 in their respective home rooms. The seventh grade will have its party on Friday afternoon.

The Pen Argyl Area Joint Schools Teachers Assn. Christmas party will be held next Wednesday night rather than the 14th as planned. The party will be held at the Plainfield School and is scheduled to start at 6:30.

At the monthly meeting of the Charles Nelson Lobb Legion Post, presided over by Joseph Saccon, it was reported that membership is now at 164. Also, a donation was made toward the Christmas light fund. The next meeting will be held Jan. 14.

Lorenda Laurito, junior in the Pen Argyl High School, has returned home after being hospitalized almost three months in the St. Luke's Hospital, Bethlehem, and the Graduate Hospital, Philadelphia. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Laurito.

Mrs. Reichner Expires At Late Home

MRS. FANNIE Williams Reichner, 85, of Stroudsburg RD1, died at 4 p.m. Thursday at her home. She had been in poor health the last two years.

Born in Bossardsville, she was the daughter of Charles and Kate Williams. She spent 50 years in the Philadelphia area, and moved into her home here four years ago. She was a member of the Winfield United Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, and also the Home Department of the Hamilton Church of Hamilton Square.

Survivors

She is survived by a brother, John Williams, Sciota; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the Warner Funeral Home with Rev. John Bergstresser officiating. Burial will be held Monday at 2 p.m. in the West Laurel Hill Cemetery in Philadelphia.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p.m. Saturday.

Final Rites Held For Carl Losem

FUNERAL services for Carl Losem, 55, of Fort Pierce, Fla., and Swiftwater, were held at 2 p.m. yesterday at the Lanterman Funeral Home with Rev. William F. Wunder officiating. Burial was in the Laurewood Cemetery.
